Vince is a New York based actor. He's a Brooklyn born, working class, man's man with a lovable goofiness... but don't get on his bad side!

Growing up, he survived on a diet of Martin Scorsese, Francis Ford Coppola, NYPD Blue, as well as Martin and Lewis, all of which happily reside in the recesses of his mind in one part or another.

He's played the title character (a ruthless capo who wants out of organized crime so he can open up his own winery) in Bill Sorice's award winning short film VINNY VINO. He recently appeared on stage at Theater for The New City as the religiously conservative father who has to deal with his son's coming out to the family, in Gaspare DiBlasi's full length play 50 THINGS I LOVE ABOUT FRANK.

He's been told that everything he does has an intensity to it. His wife claims he even sleeps intensely. He has yet to confirm this for himself.

Vince has decided that stickball and Johnny on the Pony need to make a comeback. He fully believes that both beat the XBOX and the Wii any day of the week (though he could never convince his two sons of that!)
